A higher quality of assisted living

Providing a higher standard of care for elderly residents, this purpose-built care home in Stirling, Scotland, has been designed to accommodate 65 residents in a relaxed, luxurious setting. Every aspect of the design was focused on avoiding an 'institutional' feel that might be regarded as typical of care environments, and instead achieve a desirable place to live with tasteful design features and creature comforts.

We were delighted that Rutland closers were selected for the building's fire-rated doors. One of the selected finishes, Antique Brass, is often chosen from our wide range, as it has proven popular in luxury care homes for its premium aesthetic, and the more homely feel that it provides.

Life safety in fine form

Our underlying purpose is to enhance life safety at every fire door. But we always say that maintaining life safety doesn't have to diminish the aesthetic of an environment. Our tried, tested and certified door closer models are available in the widest range of finishes, making it perfectly possible to protect lives and enhance quality of life.
